Zoological Museum

On 2.000m<sup>2</sup> you will find numerous fascinating animal preparations. From a giant whale skeleton to tiny insects—animals from around the world, in all sizes, forms, and colors are waiting to be discovered. You can even see, safely and up close, bears, tigers, and crocodiles. The entrance area is dedicated to the Anthropocene, and shows the huge influence of humankind on our environment and habitats. The museum's extensive range of exhibits includes changing special exhibitions on current topics, lectures, events and a variety of educational programs – for people of all ages. The Zoological Museum, the Geological-Paleontological Museum, and the Mineralogical Museum are all part of the Center of Natural History (CeNak).
